COMPROMISE MADE IN ENGLISH CABINET

Mr. Lloyd-George appeared to have lost favor among the liberals in the same degree that he has gained it among the conservatives, while the liberals, rightly or wrongly, attribute to Sir Edward Carson, party motives for his course, as the Ulster leader has been the liberals' bitterest opponent since the home rule campaign.

Andrew Bonar Law, secretary for the colonies, has strongly supported conscription, but it is believed that he placed the retention of the coalition cabinet above every other consideration in importance.

Some of the newspapers have hinted that Field Marshall Earl Kitchener, secretary of war, and Lieut. General Sir Wm. R. Robertson, chief of headquarters staff, threatens to resign unless the government meet the war office requirements for troops. But the Nation, tonight, denies this and says: "No pistol has been put to Mr. Asquith's head, save by his own friends," referring chiefly to Mr. Lloyd-George.

The King, the prime minister and more of the cabinet members left London this evening to spend the Easter holidays in the country.

A secret session of Parliament is almost unprecedented. The last secret session of the House of Commons was held in 1878. Only the most important officials of the House besides the members, will be permitted to attend. The press censorship is a guarantee against secrets the government reveals becoming public. It would be an offense against the "defense of the realm act," for newspapers to publish reports if they were able to secure them.

PROHIBITION PLAN OF CATHOLICS NOW CALLED IN QUESTION

California Man Takes Issue With Father Ghebof Of Douglas Upon The "Prohibition Plan" Just Published

The recent publication, in a Bisbee paper, of a "Catholic Prohibition Plan" commanded my attention and the explanation that it was "The Catholic Prohibition Plan of America" surprised me. A resident of Long Beach, California, identified with the Temperance movement in that state, and quite familiar with the Catholic attitude toward that movement, I cannot think the article properly explains their position.

Prohibition means the absolute elimination of manufacture and sale of alcoholic liquors from the country. Practical prohibition, so called, means stopping the sale or use of alcohol for beverage or any unnecessary purposes. Sacramental use is considered necessary as a sacred religious ceremony, scientific use for educational and constructive scientific pursuits, and medical use, although disputed by a National Convention of leading medical men of this country is considered necessary at least until substitute remedies are more generally understood and applied. The Catholic Church, as I understand it, recognizes these necessary uses of alcoholic liquors and leaves it to their communicants to decide the limitation of their uses otherwise, admonishing temperance in all things, a control of appetite, passions and tongue, and teaching abstinence from all sinful indulgences.

It has been disputed to me that the Catholic Church now has, ever has had, or even expects to have a "Catholic Prohibition Plan". They seek more to educate than to legislate their people to temperance. Many priests are staunch advocates of abstinence from alcoholic beverages and are taking a positive stand in the temperance movement. Temperance impulse is within the heart of every man and woman who think upon the great facts and trends of life—Catholic and Protestant, saint and sinner, prohib and bootlegger—each and all have the touch of conscience which rebels at times against poisonous drink and dissipation, and the method of control of habit of men and women in these respects is the cause of disagreement and contest. In this dispute we dislike to see the priesthood of any denomination misrepresented and used to increase confusion and faction prejudices.

The pretentious, confusing, and somewhat conflicting statements embodied in the article by Father Ghebof of Douglas, apparently a supreme struggle of an ambitious man for notoriety, would bring a smile were it not so serious in its misleading influence on a hasty public, serious because it puts the Catholic church and priesthood in a wrong light, as I believe, and I am writing this as a Protestant churchman in defense of a brighter vision and understanding of the purposes and policies of the Catholic church in regard to temperance, expecting to be criticized, privately or publicly if I am in error.

ROY NORTON'S LAST STORY IN COLLIER'S PRAISED LOCALLY

Fiction Writer Spending Time In District With Idea Of Gathering Material And Local Color For More Stories

"Captain Bill Rebel", in current Collier's, is a comedy study of that wonderful northland—Alaska—which carries such a romantic interest for most Americans and which has been painted in words, tints and song for many years. It's a good story and its author, Roy Norton, is at present investigating the Warren District, possibly, with an idea of creating Arizona Captain Dills."

To see Norton's real name add Cahill to the nom de plume. It's a very ordinary name and to all appearances the subject thereof is not other than millions of other Americans. That he can write fiction—corning good fiction—and still remain neutral and natural and approachable is a good deal in his favor.

Cahill, or Norton, is, comparatively, a young man. He is more or less a product of the west. He has been miner, civil engineer, timberman, sailor and newspaper man. It was Norton who started and ran, for two years, the San Bernardino Sun. He has had experience on many other papers throughout the country.

At the present time he is investigating Bisbee and the District. He declares there is plenty of good material here and sometime, in the future, local characters, local stories, earned to suit the taste and demand of the great American reading public may be expected from his pen.

TERPSICHOREAN TUTOR IS HERE

New Yorker Arrives For Dance Engagement At Women's Club

Mr. Forrest Harrell, late of the Wilson Academy of dancing, of New York, is in Bisbee to arrange for a series of dancing engagements and a course of instruction in modern dances here. Provision has been made for these engagements at the Women's Club, where in addition to private lessons, he will conduct an evening of class dancing each week for thirty couples.

Mr. Harrell was scheduled to appear in Bisbee early in April, but was detained in Tucson where his engagement was so well received it was extended two weeks.

Harrell's tutoring of the terpsichorean art includes the one step, canter waltz and fox trot, leaning more to the essentials in these steps than their final interpretations.

"No two dance the modern dance alike; seldom does anyone dance the same way twice. Sometimes as many as twenty different steps figure in the whimsical interpretation of a single dance," says Mr. Harrell. "But certain steps are essential and these alone I try to emphasize upon my students."

Several members of Bisbee's young set already have engaged Mr. Harrell for private tutelage.

Are you nervous? Do you have headache? Are you wearing the right kind of glasses? I straighten cross-eyes with glasses.

Many children are dwarfed both mentally and physically by defective eyes that are corrected by glasses, but not the kind sold or fitted in drug, jewelry, department, ten-cent stores, or by peddlars.

I have been in constant practice and experience for twenty three years and am a graduate of the McCormick Medical College, Chicago, Illinois, and keep up to date by post-graduate work every two years.

I have permanent offices in Bisbee, Arizona, Rooms 10 and 11, Maze (I. O. O. F.) Building. Phone 156, except Monday, when I will be in Douglas at the Hotel Gadsden.

COMMISSION HERE TODAY.

The hearing of the Jitney question will be reopened at the council chamber at the city hall this afternoon, by the state corporation commissioners, who are endeavoring to establish an equitable and fixed tariff between Bisbee and Douglas and otherwise regulate the intercity traffic. Upwards of a score of local automobile drivers and members of the Bisbee auto club have been subpoenaed for the hearing. Practically the entire week has been devoted to this question by the commissioners between here and Douglas and the hearing is attracting much interest, as it is believed the fate of the Jitney business not only here but elsewhere depends on the result of the investigations here.
